Impact and Opportunities

Off-Campus and Study Abroad Programs

King's off-campus and study abroad programs take you to unforgettable destinations and introduce you to new people, organizations, businesses, and ways of making a difference.

Justice Fellowship

The Justice Fellowship is a year-long experience with an emphasis on community building and social issues. Students take five courses (15 credits) that focus on principles and practices of justice, development, and reconciliation from a faith perspective.

Summer Research Students

Looking for an exciting way to build your resume? Classes end in April but research continues through the summer. Have a role in research that matters. Past summer research students have researched vulnerable honeybee populations, studied the potential of bacteria to confer immunity, and travelled to rural Kenya to understand the benefits of conservation agriculture.

Quest Mexico

Take 10-days in February to tour the heart of continental Mexico. You will gain a deeper understanding of Mexican society by listening to people's stories and participating in the local culture.

Student Navigators

Navigators are experienced students who will guide you through your first year. They offer support if you have questions and give you helpful tips for life on campus.

King's Centre for Visualization in Science

King's Centre for Visualization in Science hires students every summer to work on innovative and intuitive applications that help users understand complex scientific concepts.

Campus Life and Student Services

First-Year Connect Groups

Connect Groups offer support as you navigate your first year of university. They provide opportunities for you to make friends and get involved in campus activities.

Student Life

Residence Rumble, international potlucks, weekly concerts, and the annual Battle of the Bands are just some of the events that you can look forward to on campus.

Campus Ministries

Grow, pray, and serve. Attend worship nights, find a small group, and take part in prayer events. Join the ministry team to support the spiritual growth of your classmates.

Students' Association

Join or start a club, write for the campus newspaper, or find a volunteer opportunity. Interested in student government? Talk to the TKUSA executive committee.

Student Counselling

King's provides free and confidential counselling services for every student. Invest in your mental health; don't hesitate to book an appointment with a counsellor.

Centre for Career and Calling

Come and explore possibilities for your future. The Centre for Career and Calling will help uncover your gifts and get you on the path to a meaningful career.

Academic Advising

Want to talk about program options? Need to know which courses to register in? Each student is paired with a faculty advisor to help chart your academic journey.

Learning Support and Accessibility

Support is here when you need it. Writing help, tutoring, accessibility services, and more are available to students through the Centre for Teaching and Learning.
